QUOTE OF THE MONTH

“My mission in life is not merely to survive, but to thrive; and to do so with some passion, some compassion, some humor, and some style.”

»»» AFRICAN AMERICAN
CONTRIBUTION TO MEDICINE

Following her medical degree, Dr. Jane Cooke Wright collaborated with her father at the Cancer Research Foundation in Harlem, where they researched chemotherapy drugs leading to remissions in leukemia and lymphoma patients. In 1952, Dr. Wright became the head of the Cancer Research Foundation at age 33. By using patient tissue rather than lab mice, she developed a new method for testing drug effects on cancer cells. By conducting her research, she helped change chemotherapy from a last resort to a viable cancer treatment.
